

21-Day LinkedIn Content Plan

Build-in-public across three accounts — Eric (technical) · Pritam (field) · mrk18 (company page)

A research-backed plan for your review. No posts have been produced yet — this maps what each day's content would be, for all three accounts, so you can approve the arc, theme, and topics before anything is built.

Proposed theme: Daylight (cream / ink / deep-teal) — the one you picked. Reuses the 9 infographics already designed; new assets are flagged in the asset map.

WHAT'S INSIDE

The 3-week arc · the three lanes · content principles (why this works) · the Day 1–21 calendar · which assets are reused vs new · the daily posting checklist · risks · and exactly what I need from you to start producing.

The strategy in one page

THE 3-WEEK ARC

A cold audience doesn't convert on day one; a warmed one converts far better. So the 21 days move in three phases:

Week 1 · Days 1–7	EARN TRUST	Show the work and the founders. Build-in-public scenes, real numbers, honest learnings. No selling.
Week 2 · Days 8–14	NAME THE PROBLEM	Agitate the pain founders feel, prove you understand it deeper than they do. POVs, teardowns, education. Start teasing 'we're building something.'
Week 3 · Days 15–21	REVEAL & CONVERT	Reveal what mrk18 is, who it's for, the founder 'why'. Open the waitlist mid-week so the close can cite traction.

THE THREE LANES — one idea per day, three non-overlapping treatments

Eric — technical	PROOF & PRODUCT TRUTH	How it's built, why the AI works, honest engineering calls, teardowns with data. Converts skeptics.
Pritam — field/GTM	THE CUSTOMER & MARKET	Founder conversations, the pain in the wild, contrarian POVs, customer quotes. Drives relatability + inbound.
mrk18 — company page	STORY & ASSETS	Packages and amplifies the founders: polished carousels, milestones, the waitlist CTA. Not an originator.

Why daily is sustainable: 63 posts sounds impossible, but it's ~21 original ideas — each lane reformats the day's one idea, so no account posts more than ~2–3×/week (under the fatigue threshold). Target 40% net-new, 60% repurposed.

Content principles (why this works)

Hook in the first 1–2 lines ~65% decide to expand on the opener alone; keep it under ~200 characters, tension or a number, never 'excited to announce'.

Design for saves & comments 1 save 5× a like; comments 15 words carry ~2.5× weight. Build reference-worthy posts and end on one genuine question.

Be live for the first 60 minutes LinkedIn tests on a small batch and expands only if they engage fast. Reply to every early comment; co-founders comment on each other.

Links in the first comment, not the body External links cut reach; for the waitlist, post first, drop the link in comment one, reference it in the copy.

Carousels/infographics = highest reach Cap 1–2/week per lane (expensive). They earn the most saves and dwell time — our daylight set is built for this.

0–3 hashtags + one campaign tag More than that risks a visibility penalty. Use a single #buildinpublic-style campaign tag across the 21 days.

Best IST windows, staggered ~8 AM (Eric), ~12 PM lunch (Pritam), ~4 PM (page). Avoid after 9 PM and weekends-heavy.

Never bash agencies/competitors Point the bitter truth at the data or the founder, never at a category. It's a trust rule and a brand rule.

CONTENT-TYPE MENU (the formats each day draws from)

Build-in-public scene (text) · educational infographic/carousel · contrarian POV · teardown/framework · numbered list · process-flow diagram · customer quote · milestone/momentum · poll (one only) · founder-post reshare with commentary (page).

Daily posting checklist

Comment on ~10 relevant Indian-founder posts first (warm the algorithm).
Post in your IST window — Eric ~8 AM, Pritam ~12 PM, page ~4 PM.
Hook < 200 chars; one save-worthy idea; end on a genuine question.
0–3 hashtags + the one campaign tag.
Link (only if needed) in the first comment, referenced in the copy.
First 60 minutes: reply to every comment; co-founders comment on each other.
Log the post + format in the shared tracker.

Risks & guardrails

Overposting fatigue — Never collapse to one account doing all 63 — the three-lane split keeps each under ~3/week.
Selling too early — No waitlist push before mid-Week 3; Week 1 has no CTA.
Three lanes echoing — Enforce lane ownership; one idea, three distinct angles, staggered times.
Dead company page — Page always adds a POV/stat; skip an empty day rather than post filler.
The Day-22 cliff — Plan a taper to 3–4x/week per founder so launch momentum doesn't crater.

To start producing, I need 4 things from you

- 1 · Theme — Confirm Daylight (cream/ink/teal) for the whole series — or name another.
- 2 · Company handle — The real LinkedIn handle for the mrk18 page (placeholder is @mrk18hq).
- 3 · Waitlist link + start date — The URL for the Week-3 CTA, and which date is Day 1.
- 4 · Topic edits — Tell me any day's topic you want changed, dropped, or swapped between lanes.

Once you reply with those, I'll produce the set day-by-day (or in weekly batches) — visuals in daylight + ready-to-paste captions with hooks and the first-comment line — and save everything to the Drive folder you connect.
